EGIS ENHANCES UK ADVISORY SERVICES WITH ACQUISITION OF THOMAS & ADAMSON

02 May 2024, United Kingdom: Egis, a leading global architectural, advisory, construction engineering and mobility services firm, proudly announces the strategic acquisition of Thomas & Adamson, a renowned property and construction consultancy headquartered in Edinburgh. The addition of Thomas & Adamson will significantly enhance Egis' advisory services for clients in the UK and beyond, reinforcing its commitment to strengthen and expand its UK presence.

Founded in 1935, Thomas & Adamson has a rich heritage, a dedicated team of over 100 staff across Edinburgh, Glasgow, London, and the Middle East, and a proven track record of supporting leading organisations through the complexities of procuring, delivering, and operating assets in the built environment. The firm delivers cost and project management, building surveying, and principal designer services across all major sectors in the built environment, including commercial, education, sports, and hotels.

Egis' global advisory team will work closely with Thomas & Adamson to accelerate the growth of its advisory services in the UK and internationally. This collaboration promises to deliver enhanced value to clients by combining Thomas & Adamson's detailed, localised knowledge and proven track record in the UK with Egis' extensive international experience.

Xavier Odolant, Director of Consulting and Operations at Egis in the UK, said: "We are delighted to welcome Thomas & Adamson's talented team to the Egis family. Our combined expertise will strengthen our UK service offering and deliver on our mission to provide comprehensive, creative, and trusted advisory services to our clients".

Alastair Wallace, Senior Partner at Thomas and Adamson, said: "Joining Egis opens up a world of possibilities for Thomas & Adamson. It enables us to engage with larger-scale projects and introduces our clients to a broader spectrum of services, particularly in sustainability and decarbonisation, which are critical in today's world. We are especially enthusiastic about our role in the development of Egis's advisory services in the UK and other key markets".
